These questions are to be answered while watching the film "The Man Behind the Mosque".

- 1) What was the purpose/reasoning behind the "ground zero mosque" project?
- 2) How was the project interpreted/accepted by different parts of the U.S. population?
- 3) What effects did the "ground zero mosque" project have on Islamic communities around the nation?
- 4) What do you think is the reasoning behind those who are involved in the movement against the mosque, and against the "Islamization of America" in general?
- 5) What does this film suggest (if anything) about the stratification of religions in the U.S.?
- 6) What insight might be gained on these events from sociological theory?a. Conflict:
  - b. Functionalism:
  - c. Symbolic Interactionism: